Norwich Bulletin (June 29, 2013) Windham, Conn. —

“Windham Public Schools parents contributed over 7,500 hours through the Parent Engagement Tracker.

The tracker is a secured information system developed to measure and link parental involvement to student achievement. Each school tracked events, meetings, trainings, committees and volunteer activities parents attended during the 2012-2013 school year.

Research shows the results of parental involvement include increased student achievement, reduced absenteeism and improved behavior.

For more information, contact the Windham Public Schools, Office of Family and Community Partnerships, at (860) 465-2595 or visit parentengagementtracker.com.”

Easy to Learn. Easy to Use. Easy to Afford.
